THANKSGIVING.

During Elizabeth's reign, the Catho ic Church was the principle church of England. A class of people then rose up who called themselves Puritans or Protestants because they protested against the principle religion and wanted to purify it of Catholicism. As they could not get a Royal license to come to America, they determined to go to Holland where, at that time, all men could worship as they pleased. After remaining there twelve years they succeeded in obtaining the lilense. In 1620 these Pilgrims set forth for the new world in the Mayflower. Landing at Plymouth in Massachusetts they gave thanks for the safe This day became known as Thanks-

Oheese us Food. "People should know and value better cheese as food," said a physician

the other day in discussing the diet question. "It is true that freshly made domestic cheese is hard to digest, but nothing is so easily digested as any of the imported cheeses and nothing is more nutritious. Weight for weight Roquefort, Brie, Camembert and Swiss cheeses are more nutritious than the best beef or steak. They are more easily digested, and they give the same sort of nourishment that is derived a meat famine the well cured and well aged imported cheeses are the best sub stitute that can be found for beef, and, as consumed, the best of cheese is cheaper. A twenty-five cent Brie cheese, for instance, will feed more persons and nourish them better than a dollar's worth of beef. Two ounces of these cheeses have the same food value as a pound of the best prime beef."

AN OLD FAVORITE

BINGEN ON THE RHINE

By Caroline Norton

CAROLINE NORTON, afterward Lady Stirling-Maxwell, English poet and novelist, was born in 1808 and died in 1877. She was the granddaughter of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, the famous dramatist. The French Foreign Legion is composed of adventurous and desperate SOLDIER of the Legion lay dying in Algiers,

The dying soldier faltered, and he took that comrade's hand. And he said: "I nevermore shall see my own, my native land; Take a message, and a token, to some distant friends of mine, For I was born at Bingen-at Bingen on the Rhine, "Tell my brothers and companions, when they meet and crowd around To hear my mournful story, in the pleasant vineyard ground, That we fought the battle bravely, and when the day was done,

Full many a corse lay ghastly pale beneath the setting sun.

And, mid the dead and dying, were some grown old in wars-

And some were young, and suddenly beheld life's morn decline-

"Tell my sister not to weep for me, and sob with drooping head,

But to look upon them proudly, with a calm and steadfast eye,

For her brother was a soldier too, and not afraid to die;

The death-wound on their gallant breasts, the last of many scars;

ebbed away,

And one had come from Bingen-fair Bingen on the Rhine. "Tell my mother that her other son shall comfort her old age; And I was still a truant bird, that thought his home a cage. For my father was a soldier, and even as a child My heart leaped forth to hear him tell of struggles fierce and wild: And when he died, and left us to divide his scanty hoard, I let them take whate'er they would-but kept my father's sword, And with boyish love I hung it where the bright light used to shine, On the cottage wall at Bingen-calm Bingen on the Rhine.

When the troops come marching home again with glad and gallant tread,

And if a comrade seek her love, I ask her in my name To listen to him kindly, without regret or shame, And to hang the old sword in its place (my father's sword and mine), For the honor of old Bingen-dear Bingen on the Rhine. "There's another-not a sister; in the happy days gone by, You'd have known her by the merriment that sparkled in her eye; Too innocent for coquetry-too fond for idle scorning-O friend! I fear the lightest heart makes sometimes heaviest mourning! Tell her the last night of my life (for, ere the moon be risen My body will be out of pain, my soul be out of prison)-I dreamed I stood with her, and saw the yellow sunlight shine

"I saw the blue Rhine sweep along-I heard, or seemed to hear,

The echoing chorus sounded, through the evening calm and still;

The German songs we used to sing, in chorus sweet and clear;

On the vine-clad hills of Bingen-fair Bingen on the Rhine.

And down the pleasant river, and up the slanting hill,

And her glad blue eyes were on me, as we passed, with friendly talk, Down many a path beloved of yore, and well-remembered walk! And her little hand lay lightly, confidingly in mine-But we'll meet no more at Bingen-loved Bingen on the Rhine." His trembling voice grew faint and hoarse—his grasp was childish weak— His eyes put on a dying look-he sighed and ceased to speak; His comrade bent to lift him, but the spark of life had fled-The soldier of the Legion in a foreign land is dead! And the soft moon rose up slowly, and calmly she looked down On the red sand of the battle field, with bloody corpses strewn;

Yes, calmly on that dreadful scene her pale light seemed to shine,
